From MksU to Global Impact: A Journey in Sustainability

I am Nelly Ndenya, a proud Alumna of Machakos University who enrolled in September 2015 and graduated from Machakos University on 8th November, 2019 with a Degree in Environmental Studies (Community Development). I built on that foundation to pursue an international Master's in Environment, Development, and Sustainability at Chulalongkorn University, Thailand.

My research on Global Sustainable Living Policies shaped my career in climate finance, partnerships, and sustainability strategy. Today, I serve as Partnerships and Philanthropy Officer at CorpsAfrica/Kenya, leading initiatives that mobilize resources and deliver impactful projects across communities.

I am deeply grateful to Dr. Julius Nzeve and Dr. Cornelius Okello, from the Department of Environmental Sciences whose mentorship and recommendations enabled me to secure a fully-sponsored scholarship. Their support opened doors to opportunities I once only dreamed of.

To the current students: dream boldly, seek guidance, and know that the foundation you are building at Machakos University can propel you to impact lives locally and globally.
